

The Emin Way Presents

THE TWO VIEWS OF US

Forging Your Own Foundation

The founders of a nation, or a company or group, think carefully about their future. They aim high, and then build. The task of construction requires foresight and an alignment to the goals they have set for themselves, how they wish to be.

The choice for anyone wishing to build for themselves a foundation is vast. Confusion can reign as one weighs the options. During this introduction we'll learn a simple yet profound way of dividing foundation-building techniques into, not good and bad, but useful and future-oriented, or not. It's simple, and it works.

For the workshop portion of the meeting, please bring a photograph which has meaning for you (digital format is acceptable).
